

STUDENTS RALLY TO BACK U.S.

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI
LIBRARY
DEC 10 1965

A rally demonstrating the UM student body's acceptance and approval of American policy in Viet Nam will be held at 7:00 p.m. next Wednesday on the Student Union patio.

The rally, sponsored jointly by the Young Republicans and the Young Democrats is designed to "counteract the bad publicity that all campuses have received by the anti-US in Viet Nam demonstrations," according to Bill Kirschenbaum, organizer of the rally. He continues, "Over 70 campuses have had these pro-American policy rallies in the last two months."

"It is time that the University of Miami joins the college community and shows that we are mature enough, and informed enough, to demonstrate in a dignified manner our approval of American policy, whether we are Republicans or Democrats."

Featured speakers for the rally are the Honorable Dante Fascell,

U.S. Congressman from Dade County, Dr. Ivan Hoy, chairman of the Department of Religion and Army Chaplain, and Major Fred St. Clair, USMC, a veteran of Viet Nam.

Tables will be provided where students can sign petitions, after the speeches, stating, "We the undersigned hereby signify that we do understand and support the position of the United States in Viet Nam; that we defend America's right for freedom, to defend our liberty." Copies of the petitions will be sent to President Johnson and the Commander-in-Chief of U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

Pledges will be accepted to give blood, which will be sent to Viet Nam. Kirschenbaum states, "We believe that this will provide tangible evidence to the soldiers in Viet Nam that we are willing to give ourselves for the cause of freedom." The John Elliott Blood Bank of Dade County will then set a date, or dates if necessary, to collect the blood on campus.

The coordinating committee for the rally states, "This is the first political rally that this campus has held in its recent history." "We don't condone disorderly, law breaking demonstrations, put on to glorify the ego of a rabble rousing mob leader. This demonstration will take place in a dignified and effective manner."

"The number of people there, not the amount of noise, or number of students arrested, will tell the world, and especially our troops, our true feelings."

"We will have a good turnout. The students on this campus are mature enough to demonstrate in this manner their patriotism."

"We are looking forward to having as many students as possible turn out for this Rally. We would like to show many of the protesting students across the country that the majority of students at the UM are willing to join in for what they believe is right."

'Blind Dates' Test Automation Tonight

"More students participated in this event, and at a dollar a head yet, than in any USG election held at UM! I only wish I could have half as many votes, as then I'd surely be elected USG president" — joyously exclaimed Hel Reiser, the originator and administrator of the Operation Dateline project sponsored by USG.

He added that a total estimate of 1700 students put their hand to the application blanks issued for the computer-date event — approximately 950 men and 750 women.

Asked for an explanation as to the true reasons for the rejections involved thereof, he replied that about 200 males were rejected because of a shortage of female applications, although they set up application facilities in the girls' dorms and limited the number of males applying on the last day in a futile attempt to counteract the difference; less than 50 students, in addition, were ineligible for other reasons — namely, improperly filling out the application sheets and deliberate lying by several others in which they so stated in the final question.

He further stated that, with the exception of those who purposely invalidated their forms as stated above, all other rejected students may obtain their dollar refund, if they so desire, by simply showing their ID cards at the USG office — Room S240 — located on the second floor of the Student Union.

As to who pockets the money brought in by his ingenuity, Mr. Reiser smiled, saying "My 'brain-child' (idea) has netted nearly $700 — $200 of which will be allotted to the Computing Center to offset operational costs of the project and the rest will be dumped lustily into the coffers of the USG Entertainment Fund."

Mr. Reiser further pointed out that disc jockey Dutch Holland, of local radio station WFUN, is expected to make the introductions between the computer matchups in the girls' dorm in an effort to 'ease the shock' for them. He also commented that Miss Lesley Gore, who was mailed an application several weeks ago, failed to return it; however arrangements for an escort will be made by USG.

Mr. Reiser further begs students who were not rejected "not to chickie out." "It's only a one-night affair and standing-up your date would be very inconsiderate. Let me also add that our men in Viet Nam, I'm sure, would gladly switch places — so be men and women, not boys and girls!"

He also said that although "the project was very successful, the rejected students should not feel badly because the sad fate of the majority of their group was caused by a lack in the number of girls, something which we tried in vain to remedy."

He urged all students involved to check information posted in the Student Union breezeway in regard to rejections, picking up dates etc., before attending Friday evening. Information will also be listed in this issue of Hurricane.

As a reminder, boys must report to the 730 East Dorm only at the time listed by ID number in the Union breezeway. All girls must be in the Great Lounge of the girls' dorm before 6 p.m. Friday evening.

The Concert begins at 8:30 p.m. on the Student Union Patio. All students without computer dates are invited. There is no charge.

GLICK ATTACKS SPENCER IN MRHA SENATE

In verbally attempting to tear apart USG President Tom Spencer, Barry Glick, President of MRHA stated, "The new USG constitution will make MRHA powerless; I will not stand for this decentralization and delocation," at the MRHA meeting Monday night. "I've worked too long and hard to see MRHA weakened by this rule," he said.

Tom Spencer was asked to clarify the statements made by Glick and explain USG's position. He said that Glick was "referring to a conversation we had earlier. He was upset because a car representing MRHA wasn't allowed in the Christmas in Viet Nam parade."

"I explained to him that IFC, AWS and other organizations who had entered cars from separate groups weren't allowed cars in the parade because the police had limited the number of cars allowed."

In discussing the constitution and its effects on MRHA, Spencer stated that "... rather than weakening MRHA, the new constitution will strengthen it by making it a major lobbying power."

Interrupting Spencer, Glick said, "We are just now becoming a strong power on campus." He also mentioned that he was against the proposal for a bicameral legislature with an upper house composed like the present legislature and the lower consisting of representatives elected from the general student body.

MRHA was commended during the meeting for their response to Operation Christmas Star. "MRHA donated about twice as much poundage as the fraternities, said Tom Spencer.

Smith House lead the houses in donations with 8 boxes. Monrow House was second with three boxes.

The senate adopted a proposal to hold a "Christmas Mixer" Monday instead of the regular senate meeting. This will give the group a chance to discuss informally the problems of MRHA.

"Princess Of Song" In USG Concert Tonight

Lesley Gore, "teenage princess of song," will perform this evening at 8 pm on the Student Union Patio. Dutch Holland of WFUN will also be here.

Some 2000 chairs will be provided, thereby eliminating the problem of sitting on the floor. Many dates for this concert have been previously arranged by UM computers in conjunction with USG's "Operation Dateline." Admission is free of charge for UM students and faculty.

Following the concert, there will be a dance on the patio, featuring the Ibis Brothers.

New Dept. Integrates Study

A major change in the UM curriculum will take place next fall when the Radio-TV-Film and the journalism departments are combined. The merger will form the Department of Mass Communications in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Chairman of the Department will be Mr. Simon Hochberger, present chairman of the Journalism Department. Mr. Paul Nagel, Jr. will act as coordinator for the RTF division.

Three sequences for majors will be available within the department. The News-Editorial sequence will replace the present Journalism major. The Radio-TV-Film sequence will be the same as the present RTF major, and the Broadcast Journalism sequence will combine the two. One of the larger changes in the department will be the abolition of the combined RTF-Drama major. Students who have already progressed in this field will not be affected, but no new students will be allowed to pursue the program.

The new department will integrate the study of the printed and the electronic media and will enable the student to gain a wider knowledge of mass communications. It will attempt to prepare the student for responsible and authoritative positions in the mass communication media by offering new courses as the need arises to keep the department's curriculum up to date.

USG will present a special Christmas program for the orphans of the Kendall Home and for the students of the University. Tuesday at 7 p.m. The program will be emceed by Tom Wilson and Janet Parker.

The program will include Christmas carols sung by several student organizations, and presentations by Dennis Bianco and Karen Ramey. All students and faculty are invited to attend.

Juniors Set New Tradition

The junior class has designated March 14-18 as Junior Week. Although still in the planning stage, many events have been scheduled that will be of interest to the entire student body.

The underlying purposes of the week are to collect money for scholarships and to establish a new tradition of which the Junior Class may be proud.

Among the scheduled events are a movie never before seen on any college campus, a USG lecture by Howell Sergeant and a fashion show to be presented by the College Board.

A late after noon dance is being planned complete with an expensive door prize as well as a diving exhibition by the Hurricane swim team.

Also included on the agenda is the Talent Flasco. In this show student leaders, faculty, and administration will have an opportunity to demonstrate their various talents and/or ineptitudes.

Each organization will be asked to collect a quantity of a specific item which will be converted into cash by a prearranged agreement. The club collecting the most of the item will be awarded a 28" - 36" trophy at the banquet to be held Friday night, March 18, at the Holiday Inn.

"The participants will not be burdened with spirit points for this activity," stated Stan Stahl, chairman.

UM DEBATERS PLACE FIRST

UM debaters placed first at the University of South Florida tournament last weekend. The teams of Gary Sazer and Dennis Richard, Edward Shohat and Wayne Silver won seven of their eight contests.

UM debate teams will enter two tournaments Dec. 9-11. Phil Gerson and Ron Sabo will participate in the Princeton University Invitational. Shohat and Silver, and Louis Sperling and Larry Mans will attend a tournament at Wake Forest College.

UM teams have earned awards at all six tournaments entered this semester, and have won over 80% of their intercollegiate debates.

Students, Boxes, Ride To Homestead

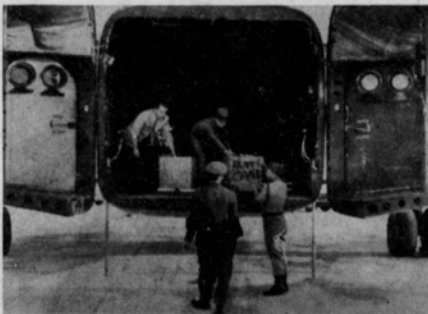

UM students actively participated in USG-sponsored "Operation Christmas Star" by forming a motorcade and driving to Homestead Air Force Base last Friday. The cars were following trucks packed with the boxes laden with "goodies" for US servicemen in Viet Nam. The boxes were loaded into huge cargo planes and transported.

Tom Spencer spoke for the UM leaders of "Operation Christmas Star" by saying, "The over-all participation by each segment of the campus is most gratifying and heart-warming in view of the tremendous importance and significance of the project."

Tom Spencer, USG President, spoke, thanking the Student body for participating.

Brubeck Quartet, Congo Music Available At UM Music Library

By LETTIE GARCIA
Hurricane Reporter
 Students on the UM campus have a variety of musical programs to choose from any day of the week: The Dave Brubeck Quartet, Marian Anderson's spirituals, and the Tribal Music of the Belgian Congo well exemplify the choice of records at the Albert Pick Music Library. All university students and faculty may use the library, which is located in a modern, circular, building adjoining the School of Music.

Named after the donor of a music foundation, the music library's facilities include 10 turntables and earphone sets, about 3,500 musical scores and 4,000 records available for circulation. The library's card scores and records of chamber music, instrument and vocal solos, Broadway scores and authentic folk and jazz music.

The library also has several bound copies of the complete works of the major authors.

According to Mrs. Elsie Farlig, head librarian, the Music Library is only in its beginning stages. The amount of volumes now in stock and soon to be acquired will probably demand the addition of a new wing to the library's building. Any plans for the library will be included in a seven-year improvement program for the School of Music which is now being formulated.

Physicists Attend Plamsa Meeting

About 1,000 physicists will attend the 10th annual meeting of the Division of Plasma Physics of the American Physical Society in Miami in 1968, it was announced by Dr. Joseph G. Hirschberg, chairman of the physics department at UM.

The action, approving Miami as the site of the fall 1968 meeting, was taken by the executive committee of the plasma physics division. It will be sponsored jointly by UM, Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton, and Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

It will be the first general conference of the plasma physicists in the Deep South.

UM plasma physicists Dr. Hirschberg, Dr. Behram Kursunoglu, Dr. William B. Pardo, Dr. Harry S. Robertson and Dr. Daniel R. Wells are among physicists throughout the nation who are probing the secrets of thermonuclear power — the energy of the stars — by re-creating in the lab the fantastically hot gases, or plasma, that are to be found in outer space.

★ NEWS FRONTS ★

The recent tied vote in the United Nations on the entrance of Red China has made people more concerned about China's present and potential power. The United States, of course, voted against her entry. But U.S. policy has not always been opposed to the Communist rule in that country.

During World War II the U.S. wanted to make China a powerful country and a friendly one. For this reason the U.S. renounced its extraterritorial rights, repealed the Chinese exclusion laws, established Chinese immigration quotas and enabled Chinese to become American citizens.

The U.S. also promised to restore Manchuria, Formosa and the Pescadores, territory that had been taken by Japan; and get China one of the five permanent seats on the U.N. Security Council.

But China wasn't becoming strong because the country was split: there was nationalist China and Communist China. Chiang Kai-shek agreed to give the communists a few seats in the Nationalist government, but insisted they put their army under his command. Though the U.S. wanted them to form a coalition government, Mao Tse-Tung and Chiang Kai-shek decided they would rather fight it out.

Meanwhile Chiang ignored the political, social and economic reforms that were needed; the peasants were heavily taxed and conscripted for the army. He thus alienated the peasant group.

After the war he nationalized the industries that he had gotten back from the Japanese, alienating the businessmen.

His unchecked inflation and secret police practices alienated the intellectuals. The result — the majority of the people were indifferent about the results of the civil war.

On the other hand, the communists retained the system of tenure, did not expropriate the land owners, established rental ceilings and lowered interest rates, made agrarian reforms, and claimed they supported freedom.

During the guerrilla type war itself, the Nationalists lost 75% of the equipment America provided. And what they lost, the Red Chinese found. When the communists worked their way to the south of the country Chiang withdrew to Formosa and Mao proclaimed the Peoples Republic of China.

At this time the U.S. State Department issued a White Paper, saying that Nationalist China was no longer worthy of American support; and that the Communists should be recognized as the official government.

Comments In Passing

We realize that the whole MRHA Senate was not responsible for attacking USG president Spencer on Monday with those ludicrous words on swallowing the MRHA powers in the new USG Constitution. We know that Barry Glick dreamed up those intelligent, cogent and lucid comments on his own.

What we, and surely many other students, would like to know is what the heck is he doing. If he's aiming to sink his own ship, he's well on his way to drowning quite a few innocent, hard-working senators.

We got a really swell letter this week. In fact, it's on this page.

It's the honey about our editorial last week in which we tried to explain to that Canadian pamphletier Miss Briggs what UM is all about.

In this week's wonderful missive, one of our own students says that we shouldn't bother to defend our school when it's under attack, especially when we are constantly screaming in the editorials for more parking lots and better student rights.

Well, Miss Orlich, we should defend UM because this university is like our own family — if we believe in it, that is. If someone started to spout off about our mother or father, we'd come to their defense. Even if we had fought with our parents about the very same thing for which the outsider attacked them.

That's called family loyalty. And since a university is an "alma mater" we would guess that family loyalty is in order.

Maybe if students nowadays had more feeling for their school instead of feeling that rebellion against everything for rebellion's sake was the proper thing, we would have a better organized and more constructive student bodies.

After all, no one asks a student to come here or to stay here. It's a free country, but no one offers you the advantages of a private university for little or no tuition. Instead of agreeing with outsiders like Miss Briggs, maybe we should attempt to feel something for UM and, in turn, do something for it.

It's an alma-mater and — like our own mothers — it has faults. But we love it for its faults and we love it for its perfections.

A note to Dr. James Tedeschi:

No one said you can't have an anti-Viet Nam rally. If that's the way you feel then express it.

The reason for last year's controversy over the teach-in was the nature of its name. We didn't think it was designed to teach in as much as to propagandize-in and we said so. We also sat through it to the bitter end at 5:45 a.m. and then reported it and commented on it.

The Viet Nam rally now planned is not called a teach-in nor does it purport to do such. It has been organized as a vent for student opinion backing government policy and that is what we assume it will do.

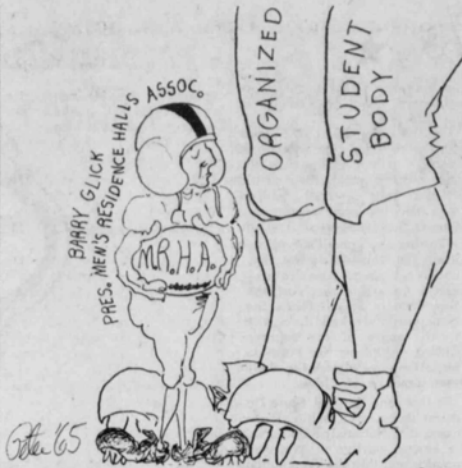

Dr. Tedeschi and his troopers should apply to have a get-the-heck-out-of-Viet-Nam rally if they want to. And it seems to us they should attend the rally on Wednesday just to see what the other side has to say.

We thought that Computer Date night was a good idea when it was first presented to us. But since then the picture has dimmed a bit.

We can't put the blame on the entire USG set-up because there must, of needs, be delegation of authority. The blame has to be bounced back to the man who headed the committee, complained through-out the planning stages and then said he wouldn't send out the post cards to the students who had been rejected by the computer because he was "tired of working."

What a wonderful attitude. It's a good thing we don't all operate on the same philosophy. If Dr. Stanford decided he didn't want to work we'd all be in sad shape.

I'm going home and you can't play! And you wanna know why? It's MY BALL!

Letters To The Editor

Editor:

Last week's Hurricane informed us that an unholy alliance of Young Democrats and Young Republicans at the University of Miami were sponsoring a patriotic "rally around the flag, boys." Loquacious Hubert, former intellectual and critic, might even be prevailed upon to take time out from his war on dissenters (in-between his war on poverty) to attend this glorious demonstration of unity. He could be joined by Senator Dirksen, William Buckley of Connecticut and Barry Goldwater — the honorable members of the opposition — as they transcend political party differences and pretend they are members of one big 4H club.

Last there be any mistake about the legitimacy of the rally, it will be blessed by a man of the cloth. This is only fitting and proper for the true believers who proclaim that the war gods are clamoring for more blood. It becomes the rankest form of heresy to disagree with the high priests of escalation.

Depicting the Johnson Administration as the true believers is not so far fetched. Mr. Johnson may have assumed office in 1964, but he is no more tolerant of dissension than if it were 1984. Only a new ruthless liberalism which believes the ends justify the means can so easily transcend truth whether it is regarding Santo Domingo or South Vietnam.

It is time to face up to the truth—to expose the Alice-in-Wonderland fantasy that the change of a few advisors to some 300,000 troops in Vietnam is no change of policy at all and that the South Vietnam rulers are symbols of freedom and love.

Peter Christianesen

Editor:

You are what I like about a powerful "in" group in power—you will criticize but won't allow criticism.

Last year you consumed much time and space exhorting against our apathetic student body, but you come running to the rescue as soon as Miss Briggs calls us unorganized.

You want UM to have a medal for not rioting against the war in Viet Nam. You probably expect a gold star in your professors' record books for completing required reading assignments, too.

You lament loud and long the deplorable parking situation, until Miss Briggs also notices it. Then you casually remark "that's life in the big city." That excuse exorbitant tuition rates, a growing number of TV taught classes, and un-named semi-professional teams by crying out—"but Mother, EVERYBODY else is doing it."

We all know that doesn't make it right.

I'm only glad that Miss Briggs didn't attend the Alumni Homecoming Dance at the Du Pont Plaza, because it spares me the torture of your rationalization of why behavior, such as exhibited by a former USG vice-president, currently one of the leading UM Law School students, while standing in the receiving line wearing a Host badge and an Iron Arrow jacket and yet omitting a tie and socks, is socially acceptable here in our academic society.

Respectfully,
Jacquie Anne Orlich

One Man's Opinion

Well, well... If your a bigot, don't look over your shoulder now, because morality and justice have taken their first step in beating bigotry and ignorance back into the crevices from which they came. They say that time heals all wounds; it also gives people time to think. Several years ago in a Deep Southern state, an 80-year-old negro man was wandering the streets looking for a meal. He wandered into a candy store and took a little over one dollar off the counter and left. He was caught and charged with grand larceny. In that state, his offense was a capital crime. An all white jury convicted him. He was given the maximum sentence, the death penalty. Upon request from the President of the United States, the governor of that glorious state commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. That was the last I heard of the little old negro man who stole about a dollar. I do remember reading that two weeks after that, a white hoodlum held up a savings and loan association for over $2,000 dollars. He hit the clerk over the head with his gun and fled. He too was caught. He too was convicted of armed robbery. He received a suspended sentence and was placed on probation. My stomach turned.

One year ago I saw a sequence of pictures in our local paper showing a negro man peacefully picketing an establishment. A white man ran up to him, smashed him in the face, knocked him down and kicked him mercilessly. Watching hands on hips, was a policeman of that community. He walked away, my stomach turned.

I spent one summer at a Southern University trying to learn something and getting away from home. I went to a movie theatre and saw the following! A negro woman approached the ticket window and purchased her admission. The ticket taker refused to admit her. When she started to argue, the usher smashed her in the face, broke her nose and knocked out what teeth she still had left. When the police came, my friends and I told the officers exactly what happened. They proceeded to arrest her for inciting a riot. We protested to no avail; my stomach turned.

Last month, Collie Leroy Wilkins was acquitted of murder by an all white jury. The first jury was hung on a verdict of 10-2 for conviction. How the second jury voted 12-0 for acquittal I will never know. The defense used the following line of defense. When an F.B.I. agent testified, his testimony was questioned in this manner: Whine he infiltrated the KKK, he took an oath never to reveal the nature of his activity. By testifying in court he was violating that oath. Thus, he could be lying now and breaking the oath he gave in court! A brilliant piece of logic, right? My stomach turned.

Surprise!!! Time finally caught up to some of the bigots I despise. Last week, for the first time in the history of the South, a white boy was convicted of rape of a negro girl and given the maximum sentence. A few days ago, Wilkins and two of his cohorts were convicted of conspiracy, an 1870 law to protect the right of citizens, originally for the freed slaves. Although both of these will be appealed, it serves notice on ignorance and bigotry. When the jury first came in on the Wilkins case, rumor has it that the decision was hung, 8-4 for acquittal. The judge would not accept this and sent them back out. I don't know what happened in that jury room, but maybe, just maybe, those people realized that this was a chance to practice the principal this country was founded upon.

Of course, this is just the beginning of a long process; not only the equality of the negro, but more important, the establishment of Justice. We have a long way to go, but my stomach feels a little bit better.

Packages for USG's "Operation Christmas Star" are shown waiting to be taken to trucks.

WILSON HICKS ADVISOR TO STUDENT PUBLICATIONS

The Hurricane Staff will hold its weekly meeting this Friday at 4 p.m. in the Hurricane office.

Aside from many interesting, exciting topics already scheduled for the meeting, there will be an extra added announcement. The staff for the spring semester will be announced (if the Board of Student Publications has reached its verdict by then of course).

Also, any students interested in joining the Hurricane staff are welcome to attend the meeting and see the staff learn about the Hurricane production.

Commuters Get Spaces

Commuter students have 255 more spaces to park now.

One lot near the Photo Center will provide 147 spaces. Another at Eaton Hall will accommodate 108 cars.

Three faculty and employee lots have also been opened in back of the Engineering Building. The first one provides 27 spaces, the second one has room for 16 cars, and the third has been expanded from 72 to 158 spaces.

These five new lots will offset the loss of 153 commuter and 144 faculty and employee spaces taken over by the new Science Complex Building.

Hart Morris, resident engineer at UM, points out that only 20 cars have been using the commuter lot at Eaton Hall.

Red hair and blue eyes look especially appealing on Freshman Noel Poulin, this week's Hurricane Honey. Noel, who comes to the University from Philadelphia, Pa., stands 5 feet 5 inches tall and displays a pleasing 34-24-36. This 18-year old Spanish major enjoys traveling, reading and bicycling. She has modeled for Dorothy R. Bullitt's Inc., and is presently working, during her free hours, at a snack bar.

Drugs Destroy Body

"Narcotics destroy you morally, mentally, and physically," said Inspector Ray Bellenger, head of the State Bureau of Narcotics. "You can't experiment with them (drugs) and get by."

Inspector Bellenger, a licensed and practicing druggist since 1930 and president of the International Narcotics Enforcement Officers Association, addressed a group of over 50 students November 30 at the Hillel Foundation. Before his discussion on narcotics addiction, and cure, the film "Seduction of the Innocent" was shown. The film depicted the true story of a teen aged girl's degeneration from someone who wanted to belong to an addicted prostitute.

Under the law narcotics include opium and its derivatives, cocaine, marijuana, and various synthetics, like phenobarbital and "bennies." It is illegal to possess heroin in any form or any other drug without a doctor's prescription. It is a felony to have a "bennie" or other such pep pill in anything but a properly labeled container.

Closer to home, in the Miami area there is a small amount of narcotics considering the location as a Gulf port. Large amounts of drugs do pass through the area to other parts of the country.

HOLIDAY BOOK AND GIFT FESTIVAL

HAPPY HOLIDAY TO ALL

UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI BOOKSTORE

— Violinist's Violinist —

By JULIAN H. KREEGER
 One of the real high spots of this season's concert calendar will be Nathan Milstein's appearance with the Greater Miami Philharmonic under Ronald Ondrejka (Dec. 12th and 13th) at the Miami Beach Auditorium and Dade County Auditorium respectively, each beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Milstein's teacher, Leopold Auer, wrote of the Dvorak Concerto, "It possesses that genuine Czech folk-color; that contrast of alternate moods of melancholy and naive happiness which is characteristic of most of Dvorak's compositions, no matter what their form may be, and its spontaneity and wealth of invention justify Brahms' jesting remark that it turned him green with envy to see the things Dvorak thought of off-hand." Many who hear Milstein perform it will want a moment of the occasion and, fortunately, he has made an exceptional recording of it with the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra under William Steinberg (backed by the Glazounov Concerto) Capitol SP 8382, Stereo; P 8382 Mono.

The completeness of Milstein's mastery over the violin literature is evidenced by a series of Angel recordings, the most recent of which is S 36007 — Mozart's Violin Concertos Nos. 4 in D, K. 218 and 5 in A, K. 219 (the "Turkish"). Mr. Milstein also conducts the Philharmonia Orchestra in exquisitely polished performances remarkable for the purity of his tone.

 In a similar vein are his performances of four Vivaldi Concerti on S 36001 and the Bach Double Concerto in D minor, Bach Sonata in C for two Violins, and Vivaldi Concerto Grosso, op. 3, No. 8 in which Mr. Milstein is joined by Erica Morini. It should be noted that the sonata is played with a piano rather than a harpsichord continuo "as is customary in present-day recital performances" according to the liner notes.
 For me one of the most enjoyable Violin Concerto records is the Saint-Saens Concerto #3 in B minor coupled with the Chausson Poeme. Here Milstein is joined by the Philharmonia Orchestra conducted by Anatole Fistoulari. The Saint-Saens offers ample opportunity to enjoy Milstein's gorgeous tone and effortless technique while the Chausson follows in the cyclical form of Cesar Franck in a haunting way.

For sheer violin playing, Music of Old Russia (S 36002) should not be missed. Milstein plays various popular works by Moussorgsky, Tchaikovsky, and Rimsky-Korsakov to perfection.
 All in all, Milstein is an artist of rare achievement whose playing should be heard and enjoyed at every opportunity.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:
 It seems to me that the learned professor of Psychology has misinterpreted the purposes and objectives of the proclamation that I, Josh Vernaglia, and Si Johnson, presented to representatives of our government last week. I am sure that this is not the fault of the distinguished educator, but rather a confusion of the limits of student government. I do not believe that I have the right to voice a political belief on the part of the student body, for the simple reason that I have no evidence to base this opinion on. There were no polls, no petitions, no referendums, only a belief by the U.S.G. to express pride in "Operation Christmas in Viet Nam." This was the only reason for our visit to the White House and the Pentagon.

If the project was an "unfortunate precedent," then I foresee real difficulty in overcoming the "Suntan U" image of complacency that plagues our student body. An image, which is totally unfounded, in view of the heartening response I received by the various fraternities, sororities, M.R.H.A. houses, religious groups, international students, law students, and I could go on and on. I do not think, however, that anyone "supports war." Even the thousands of bars of soap which were collected for our G.I.'s were not given because war is a pleasant past-time, but merely to wish them a Merry Christmas. If this project was an "unfortunate precedent," then we need more of them.

I must humbly admit that I know very little about Viet Nam or Vietnamese policy. But that is why I attended the "Teach-In," that is why I attended several debates, that is why I read the newspapers. That is frankly why I am a student. I don't know and I admit it. But as I sat in the White House, that great pinnacle of our country's strength, I wondered how many of our students, and even our well-read professors know all the facts relating to our policy in Viet Nam.

I sincerely must state that I am proud that the UM student body supported with vigor "Operation Christmas in Viet Nam." We have distinguished ourselves as students who are mindful of the sacrifices others make for our well-being. It should be pointed out, however, that professors who use their respectable positions behind the lectern to express private political opinions, do so at the same risk that "campus politics" take when the express pride in student humanitarianism.

The Boys Next Door

By MARTY CARTY
HURRICANE Reporter

Many UM students consider the School of Law a group of buildings next to the library containing an unusual and unknown flock of birds known as Aquilla legitimus (more commonly referred to as "legal-eagles").

The University of Miami School of Law is considered to be one of the finest in the country. The entrance requirements are the highest of any law school in the south. Approximately 98% of the graduates who apply for fellowships for further study receive them. In addition, the University of Miami has acquired a record among law schools in the United States Department of Justice Honors Program. This program selects 70 of the top legal scholars in the country, and for the past five years, UM has received two appointments every semester, more than any other law school in the nation.

The Law Library, which contains the tools of the attorney's trade, books, is eleventh in the United States and the largest in the south. It contains over 110,000 volumes including over 10,000 volumes on Inter-American law, the most extensive collection of this kind in the country.

Two of the faculty members are Judge Paul D. Barnes, retired Justice of the Supreme Court of Florida and Dr. Eduardo Le Reverand, former Justice of the Supreme Court of Cuba and one of the foremost legal authorities of Latin American law in the world. The Dean of the School, Dr. Frederick D. Lewis, came to the University of Miami from Kansas City, Missouri where he was Dean of the University of Missouri School of Law.

The basic approach to all activity in the School of Law is academic. Classroom learning is only a part of the education law students receive. All "extra-curricular" activities are designed to put their knowledge to practical use.

The Student Bar Association is the student government of the School of Law. It is operated, controlled, and supported by the students.

There are four fraternities in the law school: Phi Delta Phi, Delta Tau Phi, Phi Alpha Delta, and Tau Epsilon Rho. They have formal rush, pledging, and an intramural program of football, basketball, volleyball, bowling, softball, and billiards complete with Dean's Cup. They also give lectures and tutoring service.

Alpha to Omega

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

The Brothers of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity held elections last week and the following posts have been filled: Worthy Sentinel, Pete Waugh; Worthy Usher, Martin Arostigu; and Assistant Worthy Keeper of the Exchequer, Mick Albright.

Congratulations go to Richard "Doc" Ridenour and John Crane-Baker on being tapped for ODK, and to Bill Gilchrist and "Doc" for being initiated into Iron Arrow.

The Brothers of Alpha Tau Omega join the Brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon in their disapproval of the immature acts of vandalism that have occurred lately against the houses on fraternity row.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Despite the tragic loss of Tom Reilly and Carl Blyskal due to injury and retirement respectively, the SAE basketball team seems to be quite effective. Led by Ralph Simon and Rick Brigante, with Lyle Kitt, Ron Rydin, and Bill Miller, backed up by Don Brandy, Keith Hagerty, Mike Spaulding, and Rod Moore, they have rolled over Barker House and Kappa Sig.

We would like to congratulate whoever it was that remodeled our Lion. They courageously came by about 4 a.m. and destroyed both the Lion and our sprinkler and lighting systems. Good work boys. This is the kind of thing we need more of to show off our maturity.

KAPPA SIGMA

The brothers and pledges of Kappa Sigma enjoy their winter formal at the Kings Bay Yacht Club last night. The highlights of the evening included the pledges putting on a skit which tended to ridicule each of he actives.

John Tengblad, Grand Master, awarded a handsome plaque to Rick Bassett, Grand Treasurer, for the excellent job he performed this past year.

On Wed, Dec. 8th, the Kappa Sig's will celebrate Founders Day at the Dupont Plaza Hotel. They will be privileged with the attendance of two national officers and Mr. Robert Hynes, Dean of Men.

SIGMA ALPHA MU

WE, THE BROTHERS OF SIGMA ALPHA MU, MOURN THE PASSING OF OUR BROTHER, RICHARD B. EPSTEIN, WHO WAS KILLED IN AN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT LAST THANKSGIVING DAY. WE WISH TO OFFER OUR DEEPEST SYMPATHIES TO HIS RELATIVES AND CLOSE FRIENDS.

SIGMA CHI

The Brothers and Pledges of Sigma Chi fraternity would like to take this opportunity to thank the members of the Sigma Chi Mothers Club for the Silver punch bowl which they presented to the chapter on Tuesday evening at the annual Mothers' Club Christmas Party.

The chapter is looking forward to tomorrow evening's Christmas Party which will be held at the House, and promises to be a great introduction to the holiday season.

The Singing Sigs of UM will serenade the UM girls' dorms next week. The Sigma Chis serenaded the dorms earlier this semester and received quite a few letters of thanks. The Christmas time serenade is a tradition with UM's Sigs.

PHI SIGMA SIGMA

This Sat. Phi Sig Sig will present its 16th annual Fashion Show at the Fountainbleau Hotel. Models from all sororities will be competing for the "Model of the Year" trophy.

The sisters of Phi Sig are proud to announce that we took 1st place in House Decorations for Homecoming.

Our President, Lucile Scioscia was tapped for Rho Lambda and Barbara Sutker was selected as a member of College Board.

Last Tuesday we had elections and our new officers, effective Feb., are as follows: Pres.—Toby Sheninsky, VP—Marjorie Shapero, Treas.—Linda Abrahms, Sec.—Helene Brenner and Toni Kass.

Margo Magnus has been selected for "Who's Who." Also, Phi Sig held its founders day luncheon at the Kings Bay Yacht Club, Dean Hynes was our guest speaker.

ALPHA EPSILON PHI

Susan Bender, AEPHI Alumna, is on tour with Bob Hope for his Viet Nam Christmas show to be presented to the armed forces.

Diane Fass has recently been tapped for Rho Lambda. Susanne Barnette has been nominated for "Who's Who."

Congratulations to Phillis Carter and Judy Saltzman who were recently chosen as members to College Board.

We are now in the process of organizing our annual Christmas Party with TEPHI and Tri Delt.

DELTA PHI EPSILON

The Deepfers are really getting into the Holiday Spirit. We were very proud to participate in the "Operation Christmas in Viet Nam" project last week.

This week the Alumni are giving the sisters and pledges a Chanukah party complete with gifts and goodies.

Next Sunday, Dec. 12, we and the brothers of Zeta Beta Tau are playing host to a number of orphan children from the Miami area.

In another vein, Lori Adler will represent DPhiE in the annual Phi Sigma Sigma fashion show Saturday Dec. 11. Good Luck Lori.

Two new pledges have been initiated into the fall pledge class. They are Margaret Bitz and Leslie Wachter.

Congratulations to Linda Blackburn who recently became a member of College Board.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

The Pikes congratulate Earl Secola who is our new pledge class secretary. The other pledge officers are Werner Williams—President, Ron Hulbert—Vice President, Len Faber—Treasurer, Boz Wright—Chaplain, Allen Dwane—Intramural chairman, and Richard Smith—social chairman.

Saturday, Dec. 11 Pike is having a Christmas Party for all brothers and Pledges. We are featuring two bands.

We were able to contribute a large assortment of magazines and books for the Viet Nam drive. A special thank you to all brothers and pledges and all other organizations who helped to make this a success. Good luck on your Computer Date!

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Sig Ep has successfully opened its basketball season this past week with four quick victories. The latest being over Belaunde House. The team is led by Steve Onuparik, who is the scoring leader, and by fine defensive players Howie Stienert, and George "Jumping" Lampie.

Nominations for president were held last night and those nominated were John Collins, Dana Blake, Rick Preston, and Larry Neary.

ZETA BETA TAU

The fraternity designed with THE COMMUNITY IN MIND, is again sponsoring a Yuletide affair. Ably assisted by DG and D Phi E orphans from the Dade County home will be treated this Sunday afternoon to cartoons, luncheon and gifts, appropriately given out by Kris Kringle, who will arrive on the back of his proverbial Elf, Wally.

Editor:

In my opinion the SBG is setting an unfortunate precedent at the U. of Miami. President Tom Spencer has seen fit to announce that the UM student body supports the war in Vietnam. So far as I know no referendum has been held on this matter. I hope that the small number of students in The Young Democrats, The Young Republicans, and several fraternities is not considered a representative sample of the student body.

The "Pro-Vietnam" rally is opening the gates to all kinds of political activities on our campus. No one should be surprised when and if an "anti-Vietnam" rally is scheduled. One hopes that the same sense of fair play and comparable campus facilities are available to the students who might organize an "anti" rally as are made available for the "pro" rally.

I can remember the editorials in the "Miami Hurricane" bemoaning the "imbalance" of the "Teach-In" on Vietnam last Spring. I believe that most students who attended the "Teach In" now agree that a balanced and fair representation of different viewpoints was at least approximated. University facilities were used in an attempt to examine the complexities of the American interventions in SE Asia and mere propaganda barrages were avoided. In contrast, the "Pro-Vietnam" rally is blatantly propagandistic in nature.

To add insult to injury, Mr. Spencer was quoted in the press as suggesting that those who oppose continued escalation in Vietnam are ignorant of the facts. The implication seems to be that Mr. Spencer is well informed on this matter. Perhaps Mr. Spencer would be willing to debate the topic with any number of students whose names I can provide. It is my definite impression that Mr. Spencer actually knows very little about Vietnam but knows quite a bit about campus politics.

In conclusion, I ask whether the G.I. in Vietnam has his morale strengthened or weakened by letters from campus politicians and fraternity members, who from the safety of the college campus and after a pleasurable weekend on Miami Beach, support the continued intensification of an increasingly bloody war on the Asian mainland.

To be concerned with or to oppose the Government's policy in Vietnam does not imply opposition to the American G.I. except to those who want to argue by emotionalism rather than logic. The contrast between the sacrifice and deprivations of Americans in Vietnam with the affluence and hedonism at home is vividly illustrated by such "letters from the campus."

James T. Tedeschi, Ph.D.

Editor:

Three representatives of our Undergraduate Student Government "made a whirlwind tour of Washington, D.C. dignitaries." The trip, according to the Hurricane, was made with two objectives in mind — "to present a proclamation to Capital officials that the majority of the UM student body stands one hundred percent behind the administration's policies on the Viet Nam situation, and to insure American fighting men in the battered Asian republic that the consensus (sic) of U.S. college students stands firmly in their behalf."

These actions on the part of USG raise some questions which USG should clarify:

1. On what is the proclamation that a majority of the students support the present policies based? I recall no such referendum being put before the student body. Does USG, like Secretary of State Rusk, have a set of those wonderfully sensitive antennae which have been trained upon the student body to come up with an "instant referendum" to justify the proclamation? Such a proclamation should follow democratic procedures lest USG be accused of using Diem-like tactics. (We represent the majority so why have a referendum? It would have been far more proper and representative if USG would have opened the ballot box—non-stuffable variety, of course—and then come up with a proclamation based on the results. There may have been a difference in proclamations if such procedures had been followed.

2. In what conceivable manner can the UM USG claim to represent the consensus of U.S. college students? It is debatable whether USG is representative of UM students, let alone all U.S. college students.

3. The Administration's policies and aims in Vietnam situation have never been fully and clearly articulated to the people; furthermore, what we have heard seems to change depending on time, place and person speaking. We are in South Vietnam to help protect the freedom and independence of their country. According to the Geneva Accords, South Vietnam is not an independent country. The "civil administration" south of "the provisional military demarcation line" has been a series of harsh dictatorships, hardly conducive to any freedoms we are supposed to be protecting. We are told that the U.S. is in Vietnam to bring about negotiations and a subsequent cessation of hostilities yet various officials have spoken of "winning the war." Aside from the contradiction of terms. I recall no declaration of war from Congress nor any vote in the United Nations Security Council to that effect. We are told that North Vietnam is being bombed to induce her to negotiate yet Eric Sevareid tells us that an attempt at just this came from Hanoi before the bombing started. Furthermore, George Chafford and Jean Lacouture reported similar attempts on the part of Hanoi during the five-day full of the bombing last May. Space limits the innumerable other obliquely stated or implied aims we have heard from the Administration along with the contradictory information from a wide variety of sources. Just which of these ambiguous and sometimes contradictory policy aims propounded by the Administration does the majority of UM students stand behind one hundred percent?

4. How was the trip for the USG president, vice president and even the secretary of entertainment financed? Did it come out of the student activity fee each student pays? If so, by what authority is a junket to Washington financed by these fees? Wouldn't the U.S. mail have been cheaper?

I am writing this letter in reference to a letter in last week's Hurricane signed by one Michael Albright. This letter was intended to point up Zeta Beta Tau's success in Homecoming but about all that it accomplished was to show poor taste, and, I think, poor sportsmanship.

The main theme of the letter was how the other organizations in Homecoming were bested by ZBT. While a statement of success would indeed be appropriate, the vituperous nature of the cracks and insults to other organizations, was, quite the contrary, most inappropriate.

Coming from an organization which considers itself to be a leader in campus spirit, the letter shows no campus spirit whatever. As a member of one of the organizations attacked, Lambda Chi Alpha, I feel I speak for the other organizations involved when I remind Mr. Albright and ZBT of the old adage that "the people with the biggest picture window in town shouldn't go around throwing rocks."

Editor:
After attending undergraduate school up north (U of Penn), I can see, now being at the U of Miami in graduate school, how Miss Briggs got her impression. For, I have to agree 100% with her observations . . . and this is my second year here, not just a 2 hour visitor.

Any school that is trying to improve its academic level and general intellectual atmosphere must begin with the students, first. I must say the students here in the undergraduate school are not even trying. The old philosophy that suggests "students who dress well will study well" should be introduced on this campus. It doesn't matter if President Stanford wears socks or not; it is the students that walk around the campus that naturally give the impression to visitors. It is a shame and an insult to the ladies on campus for the male students to be allowed to go to class in bermudas, or dungarees, or beach sandals or half-dungarees or tee-shirts and on and on. Likewise, the women who wear shifts and sandals are only adding to the very obvious Suntan U. atmosphere. I don't care about how hot it gets or how uncomfortable it is to wear socks . . . the purely immature attitude is frightening. I fear to project my thoughts to the future when these so-called "students" will be out in the business world: the men going to work in loafers wearing no socks, and the women teaching an eighth grade class about the role of the sexes in modern society. What a joke. For you to back-up and pat the backs of these people who deviate from any sort of true collegiate living is only adding and insult to those of us who feel that as adults, we can dress as such and behave in a semi-dignified manner.

Have you ever been up to McGill? This school should only have the atmosphere of academic stimulation that engulfs that fine Canadian University and it would be on the right path. Don't be infantile and a poor editor by using the newspapers space to attack the football team of McGill. I would rather we had a losing season if we could produce more than a handful of scholars. By devoting a full page to report, you lessen the importance of a school newspaper and show you cannot take what might be considered truthful, although embarrassing, criticism.

There is a fine graduate school here. The classroom is filled with people trying to become masters in their major field of study. To walk around the campus and watch students only a few years younger than we show attitudes, as evident by dress, socializing and behavior, of indifference to a full and complete college education is an unfortunate thing. Why don't you start at least some type of campaign for eliminating bermudas to class? At least let the males be gentlemen and the females ladies. Even though one can't tell them apart from their hair-do's, perhaps we might be able to do so from observing who is wearing the pants. Yet, I even wonder if that would help.

In closing, I hate to be a traitor, because I am a student of this University, but I have to support the observations of one Miss Briggs.

Start shaping up your fellow undergraduates by shaping up your newspaper. Don't waste valuable copy condemning sports announcers and the like. This is strictly childish and in bad taste re: responsibility of a publication. Opinion yes, direct attack, no.

How can I help but down-grade this school when I visit up North and parents ask me if they should send their children here? Can you delineate positive assets? I will be glad to offer a contrasting list. Let us begin with dress on campus. There is no excuse for it.

L.J.R.
Editor, The McGill Daily:

I recently read your outrageous lies about life at the U of Miami. Apparently you are not too well informed. Classes here are important . . . in fact I've never known a professor to miss one. Apparently they are paid by the hour. Maybe yours aren't; I would suggest it. As for myself . . . I attend classes regularly. I remember I attended one in the fall of 1959 when we were afflicted with a plague of rain and frogs for a period of 25 minutes making it impossible to go to the beach. Other students were similarly affected . . . although I must admit not all of them chose to go to class. Some of the unfortunates shot pool. Obviously the surfers have nothing on us . . . plagiarists so to speak . . . As for your complaint about the parking facilities on campus my Ferrari is now parked in the front row of the faculty parking lot. I won't get a ticket . . . I managed to get an "F" sticker through some of my friends in student government. I for one would much rather see the return of education to the campus . . . and ice and snow . . . and all that drivel. You're right.

An Informed Student

Editor:

I have attended UM for four years and never during this period have I complained publicly or otherwise regarding any aspect of this institution. It is quite obvious that when one remains at the same college for four consecutive years, she must be satisfied with the pleasant experiences she is having. However, the time has come when I, too, must join the complainers and submit this letter to the editor.

Many students continuously find fault with such things as the parking situation, dormitory regulations, etc., etc. . . . These are not my major points of concern, because I realize that as much as possible is being done to alleviate these situations. What I am concerned with is what the students look like. I do believe that I have never in my life seen so many ill-dressed people congregated in one place. When I simply sit in the Union and look at the men and women students, I get nauseous!!! The majority of them look like rejects from the Village! We have dress regulations, but they certainly are not being enforced. I think it is utterly disgusting to see these capons walking around our beautiful campus donned in their dirty dungarees with their bottled golden ringlets blowing in the breeze!!! I don't mind individualists, but unless these men(?) have a hormone imbalance, I see no reason why they should keep us girls guessing as to whether they live in Eaton or 730 Hall. I might add, the girls do not look much better. I guess that so much time is spent on dressing from the eye-brows to the neck that the rest of their bodies are completely neglected. After these Picassos have painted on their face, they only have two minutes to slip into a pair of cut-off dungarees, sweatshirt, and a raincoat. An incomplete performance if you ask me!!!

I as a physical education major and very proud to be one. Members of my profession are constantly hearing disparaging remarks regarding their field. I do not intend to express my disgust of these remarks at this time, but I will say this: There is not one physical education instructor at this university who will allow a student to participate in class unless he is properly dressed and clean shaven. This holds true if you're sitting in a classroom or in an activity course. Men physical education majors are not even allowed to sit in a class without socks on their feet.

Women physical education majors wear bermudas to activity courses for obvious reasons, but when we have an exam to take we must wear dresses or skirts.

Over the Hill

By J. B. HILL

Operation Christmas in Viet Nam has been a tremendous success. The many that took part in this heart warming show of the University of Miami's appreciation to the Armed Forces in this tiny country in crisis can be proud of a job well done. Even more than the pride in success however, we hope that all who did participate gained a reward of higher value. The early start that was attained in the holiday tradition of giving will be carried through the next few weeks and possibly make a more meaningful Yuletide for all who were connected with this project.

USG President Spencer and Vice President Vernaglia Receive our highest praise for the conception of this project. The masterful handling of Operation Christmas in Viet Nam is a credit to the already long list of outstanding accomplishments of our WORKING USG.

While talking with Spencer after the completion of the project, he stated that, "I feel that this has been the most meaningful event that I have been connected with yet." To all the members of USG we send our congratulations for a job well done and our thanks for adding an unforgettable memory that will make this a brighter Christmas for those receiving the gifts and for those who gave.

Getting back into the political realm but not leaving the present subject, one further point must be made clear. There have been many unprinted and a few printed statements that this project was an endorsement of our national government's policy in Viet Nam. After talking with the leaders of USG we would like to make it completely clear what this situation is. This project was non-partisan in nature and did not give support to either policy or ideology of the conflict in its war-torn country. It contained no undertones of a position in this matter and held only the spirit of Christmas as its motivating force. After all, right or wrong, they are still fellow Americans. We feel that this is clear enough and can stand as an answer for those who question this action.

USG is now dealing with a pleasant problem that few would shrink from facing. A returned check for $1,000 from Dr. Werner Von Braun must be used in a way that would benefit the students of the University of Miami. This check was returned as a show of appreciation by Dr. Von Braun for the reception he received when he lectured on the Miami campus.

Various plans were investigated covering the origination of several small scholarships, one large scholarship, and the starting of a loan service for the students. The later program has tentatively been chosen. The plan will take the $1,000 and use it as part collateral for a loan fund of $25,000.

What this program constitutes is a fund to which any University student may avail himself. The students would be responsible for repaying these loans shortly after graduation on a time basis. Since these would be student loans the government will pay 3% of the interest with the student paying the other 3% for his good fortune.

The question has been asked if this should be used in a profit making plan? The banks will make a 6% return on the loans however, they will not start receiving this return for as long as possibly four years. This service may well be invaluable to many of our fellow students, allowing them to complete their education. The profit that Miami students will gain from the creation of this fund should offset any question of profits the banks may make.

Another factor of using the gift in this way is that the gift will never cease to be of service to the students. Under any other plan the gift would soon be expended but with this program the gift will be remembered for years to come.

Letter To The Editor

Editor:
I am so sick and disgusted with people complaining about the way students dress at UM, especially those who try to equate dress with intellectual interest and ability. The reasoning that if people dress casually they will do poorly in college is completely fallacious. And when they say that the climate here is no excuse they are being absurd.

The City Colleges in New York are considered among the top colleges in the country, CCNY especially. But according to the above reasoning, they should have the lowest rating. Girls are allowed to wear, and do wear slacks and dungarees all during the winter. Most boys wear dungarees too, rather than slacks. When I was there during registration in September I don't think I saw more than three or four girls wearing skirts, most were wearing cut off dungarees. And CCNY has its share of long, curly headed males, but it doesn't seem to effect their scholastic interest or ability.

The point I am trying to make is that dress does not have anything to do with how well students do in college. For most of us, especially those who are graduating this year, college is the last time when we will be able to wear casual clothing. Once we enter the business world we will have to conform somewhat to what is considered appropriate dress.

And besides, I wonder what some of these "dress" screamers would say if they went to the Bahamas and saw the wealthiest businessmen in bermuda suits.

Montage:

A Film Per Year For Will Rogers

By BOB SMITH
HURRICANE Entertainment Editor

It is the second time within four months that the Will Rogers Foundation is starting their annual collection in movie theaters throughout the country. The proceeds from these collections go toward research at the Rogers Laboratories and the committee anticipates the collections to total $100,000.

However, it is about time the committee for the foundation took a good look at its project and find some new method to raise the necessary funds. It is quite annoying to be seated in a theatre and have a Hollywood star minutes, and we must sit and wait for the ushers to pass the collection box around the auditorium.

Wouldn't it be more convenient and more profitable for the Fund to get together with all major film studios, and make one picture per year from which all profits would go directly to the Foundation? The technicians would be compensated for the time and effort at the usual pay rate, and the stars could either be paid a bare minimum or donate their services. The process of distributing the picture, as well as making the film could rotate between the studios. The pictures could even consist of a host of stars and be produced in the tradition of the old "Hollywood Cavalcade" and "Stage-door Canteen" pictures of the forties.

Although the cause is certainly a worthy one, it is an imposition upon the "captive" audience that exists at a movie, and the Foundation could probably find new and better means in which to achieve their goal.

The winners of the King Rat contest were Alan Dinsmore and Scott Paine. Between the two winners, the following prizes were disbursed: a record from Spec's Record Store, a pair of banana splits from Patty's Ice Cream Shop on Red Road, a transistor radio from Speedy Electronics, a pair of dinners from Deli-City, and a book from Marlboro Book Store. In addition, each winner received a copy of the original soundtrack of the movie on Mainstream Records.

A satire on the foibles of war,

The Best of Enemies features David Niven, Michael Wilding, and introduces Alberto Sordi. The film will be shown twice tomorrow evening in Beaumont Lecture Hall at 7:15 and 9:30. The short subject is Calling All Tars starring Bob Hope.

Opening this week is the new Charlton Heston epic, The War Lord. The film is the usual muck characteristic of a Heston film, complete with armor and love. The film bows Wednesday at the Miracle Theatre. (Soundtrack on Decca Records).

The Gables Theatre is presenting two horrendous adaptations of Broadway plays this week. The first is Gypsy starring Roz Russell, and the second is Meredith Wilson's Music Man.

From the Sherbourne Press in California, comes an anthology of detective stories from the old pulp magazines. Edited by Ron Goulart, the compilation of stories brings back the era when the detective reigned supreme. This was the era of Phillip Marlowe, Sam Spade, Max Latin, Lamont Cranston, Bail Bond Dodds, etc.

The old pulps were the prime source of detective fiction back in the days of the thirties and forties. Its "premature death" in the fifties caused us to lose some of our best fiction that had ever been written in the true detective vein.

The Hardboiled Dicks (Sherbourne Press $4.95) is a fine example of what existed only a few decades ago. It is mystery writing at its finest and makes a fine gift for Christmas for all the detective buffs on your list.

One of the primary instincts of all animals is self preservation. With this in mind, it seems difficult to believe that the Supreme Court of the United States recently ruled that the Communist Party of the United States could not be prosecuted for failing to register its members with the government on the grounds that since the Party is outlawed in the United States it would tend to incriminate them. Many years ago a wise man said, "Lord preserve us from idealists and we'll handle the rest," and how right he was. The Constitution of the United States was designed to insure certain rights to American citizens, and rightly so, but we are sure that if our forefathers could see how it has been applied to protect an organization which has been outlawed because it is dedicated to the forceful overthrow of our government, they would indeed turn over in their graves.

It would seem to us that if we were trying to prevent someone from cutting our throat we wouldn't turn our back just to give him a sporting chance! The issue in doubt today is that of survival, and our chances are a little slimmer since the Supreme Court set precedent for any other subversive group which may wish to use its decision to their own ends.

The Zambian problem, combined with Rhodesia's troubles with the U.N. and black-nationalist movements within the country is tangling the newly founded Rhodesian government in a hopeless web of crises which can only spell disaster for white Rhodesia.

The only glow of hope for Rhodesia lies in the fact that their southern neighbor is also white controlled and very prosperous, the Union of South Africa. South African support could help Rhodesia but British pressure may prevent the South Africans from giving aid.

The American government through the U.N. has been one of Rhodesia's loudest antagonists. We claim the Rhodesian whites are taking advantage of the poor natives to whom the land really belongs. Considering America's own actions in the past with respect to the American Indian, we feel that our delegation would have been wiser to remain conspicuously quiet.

We would especially like to take this opportunity to thank the students who took part in the recent S.A.E. blood drive for Viet Nam. It really restores one's faith in American youth to see so many students standing in line to give of themselves to men 10,000 miles away who are fighting for our right to demonstrate our beliefs, pro and con.

The tension between black ruled Zambia and white ruled Rhodesia is at a high peak after the border incident last week which interrupted electricity temporarily to Zambian copper mines.

The seat of the recent problem lies in a dam which is located on a river separating Zambia and Rhodesia. The Zambians claim Rhodesian sabotage, and the British government has recently consented to send a "token force" of troops to help the Zambians guard their dam.

Music Schools Open New Season

The UM School of Music choruses will present their first concert of the year Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Beaumont Lecture Hall in the Memorial building.

Featured in the free admission program will be the 75-voice robed Concert Choir, the blazer-outfitted 40-voice Male Chorus, and 16 Madrigal Singers.

The Madrigal Singers, comprising a select group of music majors, will open the concert by performing selections including two Bach works. Following the Madrigals, the Male Chorus will perform the "Testament of Freedom," by Randall Thompson with words by Thomas Jefferson.

The Male Chorus will also perform two religious selections, "Adoramus Te, Christe," by Palestrina, and "Hallelujah, Amen" by Handel.

After a short intermission the Concert Choir will perform numerous sacred and secular compositions featuring Bach's "Christmas Oratorio." Soloists will be James Humphries, tenor; Betty Pressley, alto, and Douglas Daubenspeck, bass.

Intramurals — Steve Hertz Named First String Quarterback

In a week filled with powder puff football, women's bowling, boxing, and tennis, the UM intramural department presented its 1965 All-Campus Touch Football Selections on Monday.

Steve Hertz, the quarterback who lead Dylan's Raiders to the intramural championship, leads the first string offense in that position. Hertz was one of five Raiders selected for either the first or second team in offense and defense.

Ron Lavan of Ungar House, was named quarterback for the second team offense and is one of four Ungar players to make the top two teams.

Phi Delta Theta also placed four men on the roster followed by Zeta Omega with three.

Intramural boxing competition got underway on Monday evening with a total of 60 men scheduled to compete in this year's tournament. A complete rap-up of this year's tournament will be presented in next week's Hurricane.

Leaders began to make their appearances in intramural basketball this week as the program approached the half-way mark.

In the Atlantic League, Sigma Chi, aided by the height of Tom Moffett, Barry Tamplin, Art Zachary, Bob Stanley and Al Hindman won their first three games of the season.

In the Gulf League both Mahoney House and Sigma Alpha Epsilon began this week's series with 3-0 records. Leading the SAE team to their victories have been Dick Brigante, Ralph Simon, Lyle Kitt, Ron Ryden, Bill Miller and Coach Tom Ralley.

The Mahoney House team, which last week topped ATO by a close 41-40 is captained by Tom Rebel, with Tom Curtis and Steve Brennan providing much of the scoring support. Three teams presented a challenge for the lead in the National League at the beginning of this week's competition.

Belaune House, with a 3-1 record on Monday appeared to lead in the MRHA division, hile Sigma Phi Epsilon and Tau Epsilon Phi were tied for first place in the league with 4-0 records.

In the Southern League, Psyches and Dylan's Raiders both held 3-0 records at the beginning of Monday's competition.

Tennis championships will be determined late this week, with Zeta Beta Tau, Zeta Omega, Alpha Epsilon Pi and Tau Epsilon Phi all scheduled to play in semi-final matches. Still contending for the tennis singles championship this week were Bob Peeden of Sigma Chi; independents Lloyd Sara, Paul Rosen and Don Friss, and Rick Yates.

Alpha Tau Omega and Tau Epsilon Phi will decide the Intramural Rifletry Championships this week.

One hundred UM co-eds began practice on Monday for this year's Powder Puff Derby which will begin next Tuesday afternoon.

17 Gridders Graduate

By LARRY SHORE
HURRICANE Sports Writer

The scoreless tie with Notre Dame at the Orange Bowl marked the final appearance for 17 University of Miami football players.

Although we are quite sure that graduation will bring for these men the start of something even more successful and rewarding, can we be as sure that the Hurricanes will not feel the loss of these players and will be successful in attaining a winning season next year?

Will the loss of running backs Pete Banazak, Russell Smith, and Randy Barth affect Miami's well-balanced attack? Banazak and Smith ground out over 700 of the team's 1,100 plus yards (rushing), with Pete gaining over 1,000 yards in his three years.

Let us think about the offensive unit that opened up the holes for those blazing backs, protected the quarterback, and caught the passes that enabled the 'Canes to have such a successful year. Will the shoes of Bernie Yaffa, Ed Kraszewski, Norm Blanchard, Frank Beck, and Tom Coughlin be too large to fill? And who will take the place of place-kicker Don Cartright?

The answer to all these questions lies in the future.

Racing Editor Visits Drags

By SAM MATTER
HURRICANE RACING EDITOR

Throughout the semester, I have devoted space to sports car racing. Lately, however, I have received more than a little "polite criticism" from another branch of the UM's auto racing fraternity, the drag racers. In the true spirit of journalism, I will devote equal time to them.

To many people, drag racing is thought to consist of a stop-light at a busy intersection and two "squirrels" revving their engines and looking around for the police.

Actually, legalized drag racing is far from this. While many participants in this sport are youngsters, a large portion is made up of older people, many in professional life.

Drag racing cars today have become highly specialized pieces of machinery. Two auto manufacturers, Chrysler Corporation and Ford Motor Company, have taken such a keen interest in this competition that they offer special drag racing packages from the factory. These cars, naturally, are not designed for street use, developing well over 500 horsepower, and costing far beyond the price normally paid for their "street" counterparts.

A drag race consists of a quarter mile acceleration run. The starting line, known as the "chute," is equipped with highly accurate timers. These Chrondek timers are activated by the light beam, running across the front of the chute. When the car breaks the beam, the timer starts. The end of the drag strip, known as the trap, is equipped with four more timing lights. They cut off the elapsed time recorder and measure the cars' speed at the end.

Some of the top times today are less than 8 seconds with speed in excess of 200 miles per hour. These figures, however, do not represent stock-type cars and are set by single seat, 1000+ plus horsepower, nitromethane fueled dragsters.

Last Sunday I answered the call of the UM dragsters and went out to Master's Field in Opa Locka, behind the Miami-Dade Junior College. A "whopping" delegation of two was there from the U.M., but what with tests and term papers due around this time, I can't blame them.

Drag racing at Master's Field is over now until the second week in January. In the meantime, Palm Beach International Raceway will still be running on the second and fourth Sundays of each month.

The biggest factor in favor of dragging, it seems, is relatively low cost. I am not speaking of the FX or modified cars. These are the normal street machines. For about five dollars, a driver can run his car until he gets tired, or worse, the car does.

Sports Car Driving School Opened At Palm Beach By Jim Russell

By SAM MATTER
HURRICANE RACING EDITOR

Last month at Palm Beach International Raceway, the Jim Russell International Race Driver's School got underway.

Through the efforts of British motor enthusiast, Russell, the school was started and quickly spread from England to France. Possessing approximately twenty cars, Mr. Russell looked to the United States.

Last summer, a crew consisting of Henry Morrogh and Wallace Ward arrived in Vineland, New Jersey, along with racing mechanic David Lefley. Four Lotus 31's served as their instructional cars.

Complications with the use of the track and the cold weather soon made it apparent that a new location was needed. Palm Beach International Raceway was the logical site.

The Lotus 31, designed specifically for racing, is an open-wheeled, single seat, rear engine machine standing approximately 30 inches high and weighing about 850 pounds.

The cars used by the school are powered by 997 cc. Holbay-Ford engines with approximately 100 horsepower. This is sufficient to give the cars top speed in the vicinity of 140 miles per hour.

The introductory session at the school costs $30 and allows the student two hours in the car so that he may evaluate the car and the instructors may evaluate him. If a prospective student desires to continue, lessons are $30 each.

Each lesson consists of a two hour session with the car and may be taken at any rate the student wishes, once a month or once a week. The only requirement is that appointments be made in advance.

UM student, David Rosenblum, ran several sessions at Vineland this past summer. Dave's driving ability seems to have impressed the school enough that next season Dave will probably be racing one of the school cars in S.C.C.A. competition.

According to Dave, many people are afraid to start racing in an automobile of this type. In actuality, however, the Lotus 31 is a perfect machine for this kind of activity, because it allows the instructors to observe the slightest mistake a novice could make.

The school will not allow a student to race one of its cars until it feels that the student is fully qualified.

Under present agreement, a student will be given a waiver of Sports Car Club of America licensing requirements if he successfully completes the school and passes the tests of S.C.C.A. officials.

Florida, Santa Clara Defeat Cane Cagers

Bronco Guard Gervasoni Proves Too Hot To Handle

By MIKE JACOBSON
HURRICANE Sports Editor

The University of Miami cagers opened a three-game road trip Tuesday night on a losing note. The loss came against Coach Bruce Hale's alma mater, Santa Clara in California, 78-74.

Coach Hale's teams have yet to beat the Broncos in three attempts.

The game was action-packed from the opening whistle. In the first few minutes of play, Santa Clara jumped off to a 14-9 lead, with guards Junior Gee and Rick Jones doing most of the early scoring for Miami. Then Mike Wittman found the range and the Canes roared back to lead 29-22 on the strength of Mike's 13 points.

Wittman then drew his third personal foul and Coach Hale took him out of the game. The Broncos began to look like second-story men as they repeatedly stole the ball from the weakened Canes. At halftime, Santa Clara led 44-39.

In the second half, with Miami trailing 56-47, Junior Gee began to hit from the outside, astonishing the partisan Santa Clara rooters with 30 and 35-footers.

The game matched the little men, and in the end, theirs were bigger than ours. Bronco guard Mike Gervasoni, only 5'10", looked like a giant as he constantly kept victory out of reach for UM by making fantastic shots. At one point in the second half, Miami was leading 70-68, but Gervasoni hit a 20-footer to tie it up and a free throw by Terry Porter put the Broncos ahead to stay. It came on Mike Wittman's fourth personal foul.

At the half, the Broncos, although smaller, led in rebounds 28-24, and also outshot the Canes, hitting 41 percent from the floor to the UM's 38 percent.

High man for the Canes was Junior Gee with 21 points, followed by Wittman with 18 and Jones, 17.

The high man for Santa Clara was Gervasoni with 27 points.

On Saturday night, the Canes meet the University of Nevada, at Reno. The game will be broadcast on radio over WKAT.

Forward Rusty Parker Fights For Rebound Against Tall Gators.

Gator Height, Gary Keller Overpower Hurricanes

By HUMBERTO CRUZ
HURRICANE Sports Writer

Tall Florida stopped undersized Miami's two-season, 12-game winning streak with a 77-66 basketball victory before a paper-throwing crowd of 4,268 at the M-DJC gym Saturday night.

With 6'9" forward Gary Keller leading both teams with 30 points and 12 rebounds, the Gators ended seven straight years of defeat in Miami.

The Canes spent most of the second half in a press, trying to steal the ball and catch up with the Gators, who had taken a 33-23 lead in the first half.

The press seemed to work as Miami drew within a basket, 49-51, with 7:12 left. But in pressing, the Canes fouled often and left themselves open to the easy basket. Florida scored nine layups and 16 free throws in the second half.

Foul trouble plagued Miami throughout the game. Rick Jones and Rusty Parker fouled out, and Mike Wittman played the last five minutes with four fouls.

In the end, it was Miami's inability to break the Gators' zone defense that turned the tide. Only Junior Gee was able to hit consistently from outside, scoring 18 of his 24 points in the second half while keeping the Hurricanes in the ball game.

The Canes almost pulled it out after Paul Morton's layup gave the Gators their biggest lead of the night, 44-32, with 14:11 left. With Jones hitting two clutch baskets, Miami drew within nine points, 42-51.

In the next two minutes, Gee scored twice from more than 25 feet out, Parker sank a 30-footer from the corner and a free throw, and suddenly it was 49-51. Florida threw the ball away twice and missed two layups while the Canes scored seven straight.

Then Keller took charge. He hit a free throw and a hook shot before feeding David Miller underneath the basket for an easy layup, putting Florida seven points in front.

Linksmen Defeat Jamaica Golf Club

Miami defeated the Jamaica Golf Club 12-3, winning both doubles and singles matches at the Coral Gables Biltmore course Thursday and Friday of last week.

The victory was Miami's fourth in eight tries against Jamaica, and one that pleased Coach William Heuson tremendously.

"Our men played real well; they are much farther advanced than I expected this time of the year," said Dr. Heuson, who not only coaches golf but is also the chairman of the Finance Department of the School of Business Administration.

Junior Derrick Kent led the Canes to a 4-1 lead in Thursday's doubles matches, shooting a two-under-par 69. Miami won three doubles matches and tied two.

The Canes clinched it Friday, winning seven singles matches, losing one and tying two. Miami's Chris Miel and Jamaica's Mike Elder had the best score of the day, 71.

Dr. Heuson has been invited to take his team to Mexico City and Jamaica during semesters, but he can only accept one invitation. "I don't know where we'll go yet," he said.

After the trip, the UM linksmen will start intercollegiate competition the third week in February.

When Miami pulled within five, 55-60, Keller sank two free throws and again found Miller under the basket for two more points. The Hurricanes never came closer than five after that.

Both teams shot poorly in the first half. Florida hit 13 of 40 shots for 32.5 percent, and Miami managed to do worse, sinking 9 of 33 for 27.3 percent. The Gators finished with 27 of 69 for 39.1 percent, while the Canes picked up in the second half to finish 25 out of 63 for 39.7 percent.

But the Gators made up for their cold shooting with their rebounding. Florida repeatedly got two and three cracks at the basket, scoring five times on tip-ins. The Gators out rebounded the Canes 45-33, and on many occasions the Florida offensive backboard seemed to be covered by blue Gator shirts.

Miami led only twice, 4-3 and 6-5, in the opening minutes. Keller — who else? — put Florida ahead to stay, 12-10, sinking a layup with 11:36 left in the first half.

The Gators then held Miami without a field goal for nearly four minutes, as Florida grabbed a 20-12 lead. The Canes had to play catch-up the rest of the way.

LockerRoom Quiet After Florida Loss

It was a gloomy, quiet Miami locker room after the Gators' win. Hardly a human voice was heard, except for an occasional whisper, "Where are you going now?" and the hushed reply, "Home."

It was quite a contrast to the stamping, court-pelting crowd which littered the floor with wadded paper programs and forced officials to stop the game with only six seconds left.

With the Hurricanes trailing and pressing, each foul called against Miami was greeted with boos and papers. When Rick Jones fouled out of the game with 1:12 left, the deluge began in earnest.

One minute earlier, Jones and Florida's Paul Morton had collided and reverted to football tactics to the crowd's delight.

"The fans definitely did the wrong thing," said Coach Bruce Hale in the Canes' locker room. "But at least they showed they were behind us for the first time."

"I think Gee, Jones and Parker played a fine game for us," he added. "But they (Florida) took three shots at the basket when we took only one, and it's tough to win that way."

"I think the team will bounce back next week. We're certainly looking forward to playing the Gators again at Gainesville next month, but we know they'll be tough there."

They looked tough enough here for Gee, whose 18 points in the second half kept Miami within striking distance.

"We just weren't hitting," he said. "They had a very good defense and took three shots to our one."

Parker, who pulled down 11 rebounds to lead the Canes, was disappointed man.

"We wanted to win real bad, but they had too much defense," he said. "Their Keller was just too much."

It was Jones who best summed up the team's feelings when asked what was wrong against Florida:

"If we knew," he answered, "we would have won."

Thru The Lens

I walked into the office Monday morning and found a letter on my desk. My first piece of fan mail, I thought, as I excitedly ripped it open. To my dismay, it wasn't for me at all but for the 4,500 fans who attended the Miami-Florida basketball game. It read:

To Miami basketball fans,

I would like to express my appreciation, along with the team's, concerning your excellent school spirit during our game against Florida. It's too bad the team didn't do as good a job as was turned in by the student body, or we'd have won the game.

Until the final minutes, when it got out of hand, this was the most vociferous and spirited crowd I've ever witnessed at Miami. At halftime, most of the players were remarking that this was the first time they've played before a crowd in Miami where they actually felt as if it were a "home" crowd, and we shouldn't let them down.

Assistant Coach Ron Godfrey stated after the game, "Until the final moments, this was the best crowd reaction to a Miami game I've ever seen in my eight years here."

In ending, I'd just like to say "thanks again," and I hope this new-found trend will continue throughout the remainder of the season.

Athletes To Donate Blood For Teammate's Mother

By MIKE JACOBSON
HURRICANE Sports Editor

There is an old expression that "God looks out for drunks and children." There is also one that goes, "Athletes take care of their own."

UM athletes will heed the maxim on the fourth of January when they donate blood to help a ball player's mother undergo a serious and dangerous operation.

John Danchik is a sophomore third baseman for Coach Ron Fraser's team. His mother, who lives in Irwin, Pennsylvania, urgently needs 100 pints of blood for an operation that has been attempted only 10 times. It is a double kidney transplant.

John's baseball teammates have already volunteered to give blood for the operation and Athletic Director Andy Gustafson is contacting athletes from all other sports.

The blood drive will be held on the second floor of the Student Union and anyone may donate blood.

If you are a sports fan or just a human being, your cooperation and blood will be greatly appreciated. It's the least we, the students, can do to help our athletes, by giving them support off the field, not just on it.

Hurricanes have joined the ranks of professional football.

Halfback Russell Smith and split-end Tom Coughlin signed with the new Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League. Smith stands 6'1" and weighs 202 pounds. Coughlin is 6'4" and tips the scales at 215.

John Matlock, 6'4", 226-pound linebacker, signed with the New York Jets of the American League.
